Maximising Employability—The Future Fair

It was a busy afternoon at the employability fair on Wednesday, and lots of students visited it. There were staff from lots of organisations on the stalls, offering information.

Students from Manchester Academy helped set up the fair, and Employability Manager Marina Bowden gave special mentions to Taha Al Mansouri, Marwa Yussuf and Ryan Maloney for their invaluable assistance.

There was great feedback from the visitors too. 'Yesterday's event was fantastic.' Susan Williams, of Loreto said, "You should be very proud of your students who came to our table well prepared with plenty of questions and bags of enthusiasm. We were very impressed with their politeness and willingness to help too."

Among the many organisations attending the fair were Total People, Salford City College, Pendleton Sixth Form College, Seetec, City in the Community, William Hulme's Grammar School, Xaverian College, and Manchester Metropolitan University.

ACADEMY EXPLORES WORLD LANGUAGES WEEK

This week has been World Languages Week and students from the Academy have been taking part in activities including Spanish dancing, henna, and special lunch options.

During the week students were given the chance to try activities from many countries and meet visitors speaking many languages.

There were drummers visiting The Academy and even a man walking on a ladder and riding a unicycle.

There has also been a poster competition, with 16 students winning passes to a film, and staff wore language badges on Friday to show what different languages they speak.

It was a wonderful week for World Languages.
